Health Freedom to Serfdom in 20 Short Years

By Jack Phillips

Today America has the most expensive health care in the world. It is costing us over $2 trillion a year for mostly third-world quality care by a sickness industry. The application of carefully crafted laws is beginning to reveal the extent of our subjugation to our supposed servants. A short time ago, in Prince Georges County,

Md., parents were ordered to appear in court with their children for court-directed, state-mandated vaccinations or face fines or imprisonment. The reason for this outrageous invasion of the rights of parents to protect their own children was the possible loss of $26 million by the county's public school system.

Maryland law says that in order for the schools to get the 46% of their budget which the state provides, a child must be enrolled in school. State regulations require the child be vaccinated to be enrolled. Unless vaccinations are up to date, according to the law, a child can be denied admission to school or expelled. This is a great deal for the highly-profitable drug industry and for those who provide vaccination services, but a bad deal for parents.

Where is the evidence that the vaccinations, that these children were forced to accept, are safe and effective? The fact that the new disease, autism, which first appeared in the United States as a rare birth defect, rapidly blossomed into an increasing scourge after the inception of the national vaccination program is evidence that vaccinations are not safe. Informed scientists like the chairman of the Chemistry Department of the University of Kentucky, Boyd Haley, attempted to get the Centers for Disease Control to recognize the damage vaccinations were causing for more than 15 years.

The American Academy of Pediatrics, recently attempted to suppress an ABC television program about autism, but failed. Their press release claimed that no scientific link has been found between vaccines and autism.

It is true that the official publications of the medical monopoly contain nothing derogatory about vaccines. That would be bad for business. However the Journal of the American Association of Physicians and Surgeons in 2003 published a study which showed a connection. Children who received three vaccines containing the preservative thimerosal, which contains mercury, were found to be 27 times more likely to develop autism than those who received thimerosal-free vaccines. Thimerosal was once evaluated as a topical disinfectant against umbilical cord infections. It killed many of the kids in the test. Investigators recommended that it be banned from hospitals.

The fact that thimerosal is no longer approved for use in pediatric vaccines does not mean that the problem is solved. Flu vaccines, which contain 25 micrograms of mercury, are now being promoted even for infants. Moreover, the attempt to obliterate childhood diseases may merely result in their occurrence in older people with more serious consequences. ♥
