Psychiatrists to Attack Family All in the Name of Healing

The Ultimate "Good Citizen" is a Mind-Controlled One

At one time, jittery kids were allowed to run and play, burning up all that excess energy that a lot of senior citizens could use. In fact, a kid who was quiet was the one who caused concern among parents and teachers. Creative educators had to find ways to hold the interest of students who wanted to be out playing sandlot baseball or building snowmen. Now these "wired" kids are given Ritalin under the guise of having ADD (attention deficit disorder). It will make for more pliable minds to accept the dictates of the state and the doctrines of the New World Order, by whatever name it chooses to be called.

"Normal" kids are those who do not question, obey immediately, and grow without the benefit of exhausting themselves over a game of kick-the-can or an afternoon of sandlot ball games. Their egos won't be damaged by hide-and-seek, nor will they recognize any difference among people, for all will be the same. Drones in the making, humanoids, a race of compliant beings.

But what if they come from a family where there's a respect for individuality, some healthy family arguments and a bit of discipline applied to the seat of learning? In that case, there is a relationship illness, one that can be compelled to get "help" from psychiatrists who specialize in relational disorders, the NWO name for good old normal family differences.

Such plans by the field of psychiatry to intervene in the home, possibly the workplace, and eventually into everyone's life and thoughts was the subject of an Aug. 31, 2002, article by Shankar Vedantam of the Washington Post. Not all psychiatrists agree with the plan to enter the field of "sick relationships" and prefer to stick with the traditional efforts of psychiatry to work with mentally ill individuals. There are numerous kinds of relationships in this world; we're all unique people and we all have differing worldviews.

But if the shadow people of the ruling elite have their way, the next generation of children and adults will face the ever-increasing force of the government to make all people conformable to the new regime, to dispose of dissidents, and to destroy religious beliefs or "hallucinations" as they are often called in China today. Totalitarian regimes, which is all the NWO is in fact, will not tolerate dissidents nor will it allow religious beliefs apart from the one world religion of earth worship – the "Mother Earth goddess" or as she was called in ancient times, Inanna, the incarnation of Semiramis. Call her by her Babylonian name, Ishtar.

This is insanity, not progress, and those who buy into it are either totally deceived or don't understand what is involved. Americans are easy to deceive because they have lived as a free people, particularly those of my generation and the one after mine. Recent generations have had more federalized education and are being subjected to more amoral or morally equivalent paradigms or thought processes. Except there are those pesky religious folks, who insist on calling things evil or good, so they must be dealt with, either by intimidation, drugging or other means of control.

There was a time when there should have been a general uprising in America against this movement, but again, Americans thought it was time to be "tolerant" and not so old-fogey strict about drugs, moral decay and promiscuity. Then along came AIDS and some folks thought again, only to find that the government wanted to seek a cure for AIDS and not disturb the rights of people who engaged in deviant behavior. There is no deviant behavior in the new world paradigm other than the hallucinations of folks who believe in American freedom and Christian liberty.

All of us who are writing from the conservative viewpoint today have a relationship illness with our government, because we dispute its policies and we believe we have a First Amendment right to do so, guaranteed to us by our Bill of Rights. We are living in the last days of such rights if the government keeps extending its influence, via medicine, education and legislation, into every right we the people ever had under our Constitution.

The time for armed insurrection has passed. The time for passive resistance on the part of all Americans who respect their rights enough to fight for them is still here. "Just say no" to the dictates of schools and doctors who would take over parental rights. If over half the parents in a school or school district say no, they cannot throw all of them in jail. The problem is the fear or intimidation that arises when the first brave souls come forward and say "no" and wind up in jail, court, and dispossessed of their property. Liberals who support the new totalitarian regime will line up to be congratulated on their awareness. Conservatives, a disorganized but large percentage of the population, find it's tough going to be first, but someone has to or the nation will have one generation more before it institutes full and final control over all its subjects.

If ever there was a "sick relationship" it is the Elitist plan for controlling the earth and all its individuals under some sustainable-something policy.

If America had an honest media, plans like this would be all over the nightly news and people would be stirred up to the boiling point. But the media is owned by the Elitists, so plans like this do not get reported except in certain newspapers, and then in a column that may or may not be read. It doesn't get headline treatment like an airplane hijacking, even though the intent is to hijack and destroy America in its traditional form and function.

ne fact that other nations, who are also victims of the NWO paradigm or will be, hate the U.S. keeps up the facade of American "freedom" without mentioning that most of it is now gone.

Churches still meet on Sundays, so all must be right with our free country. The fact is, many of our churches are every bit as sick as the Elitist plan, dabbling in higher criticism, social reform or a watered-down gospel fed to the congregation by a preacher who doubts the Bible.

Schools still teach the same subjects as they used to, at least by class title. It is what they are teaching within the context of history, civics, social studies and physical education that makes the difference. A label doesn't guarantee the contents. It describes what should be in the container. The educational labels do not describe what and how the students are being taught, molded and disciplined to the groupthink. That is the teacher's job.

They're your children and grandchildren - make sure they know the truth!

July 4th

THE LAST INDEPENDENCE DAY

by

Dr. Adrian Krieg

Author of
THE SATORI AND THE NEW MANDARINS

In this new book, Dr. Krieg explains the methods (and some solutions) by which Americans are being brainwashed to allow the dissolution of the United States by either treaty or Executive Orders. This action is scheduled to take place no later than the Presidential elections of 2016, in which case our last Independence Day will be July 4, 2016.

Some points covered are:

- The 3 Branches of Government are playing "musical chairs" - UNCONSTITUTIONAL and extremely dangerous games!
- Information Overload - describes the ways in which We the People are deliberately led astray by government propoganda!
- Finance - the Federal Reserve is a privately owned corporation which controls the basic stock of money!
- Children & Religion - organizations designed to indoctrinate our children and use them to influence parents politically and socially: NEA, the Disabilities Education Act, "Cooperative Learning," Humanism, Pantheism, Interfaith groups, etc.
- Socialism - Alive & Well in America - Lists 56 members of Congress who are avowed Socialists and over 60 groups who financially support them!
- The United Nations and Politics - The UN Charter is a virtual copy of former USSR "constitution." The UN defies our Declaration of Independence, Bill of Rights and Constitution!

What are YOU going to do about it?
