THE LIVELY COMMUNIST CORPSE

Even those who continue to cherish the delusion that "Communism is dead", must acknowledge that the "Corpse" remains remarkably active. From Los Angeles to Lima, Peru; from Johannesburg, South Africa to Tel Aviv, Israel; from Moscow, Russia, to Beijing, China; Communist activity thrives. This formula is being followed: "Exploit grievances, Find out what people want; promise it to them; go to work to get it for them so that you can come to power over them."

Here are a few examples of current Communist activity:

1. An invitation from the Southern California District of the Communist Party, U.S.A.

"Join us in a Champagne Brunch on Sunday, January 31, Featuring Sam Webb, Sec. Nat. Labor Commission, CPUSA; Commenting on 'Challenges for Labor in the Clinton Administration'. Sponsored by the Southern Calif. District of the Communist Party, U.S.A."

2. A report in the January 16 edition of the U.S. Communist newspaper, PEOPLE'S WEEKLY WORLD, under the caption, "Israeli CP prepares for 22nd Congress:

"TEL AVIV - Preparations are in full swing for the 22nd Congress of the Communist Party of Israel, slated for Jan. 28 - 30."

3. U.S. Communists rejoicing because the Communists have regained power in the former Soviet Republic of Tajikistan:

Communists again lead Republic of Tajikistan

(People's Weekly World, January 16, 1993)

4. A report in the Chinese Communist magazine, BEIJING REVIEW, with caption:

Yeltsin's China Visit: A New Era

(December 28, 1992,
--January 16, 1993)

It has been well said that "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is for good people to do nothing."

Every country has numerous "social forces" which the Communists can harness and exploit. In the United States these include unemployment, homelessness, family breakdown, crime, racial discrimination, feminism, homosexuality, amoral education, and many more; while in Russia they include inflation, unemployment, national pride, and despair. Grievances are almost universal.

The Communists are experts at taking the words of Jesus out of context and using them to promote their revolutionary cause. They could take a well-known saying of His and distort the words to form the recruiting slogan, "Lift up your eyes and look upon the fields for they are 'red' already for harvest."

INTERNATIONAL SUPPORT FOR PERU'S COMMUNIST MURDERERS

There are many in the ranks of the International Communist Movement who lust to equal and surpass the homicidal records of Hitler and Stalin, but they lack the power to do so. One of these is Abimael Guzman, a former professor of philosophy in Peru, who is chairman of the Communist Party of Peru. He has made a good start. Twelve years ago he launched his Communists, known as the Sendero Luminoso, or Shining Path, on a campaign of assassination and murder in order to terrorize and conquer the peasants and people of Peru.

His teachers were Mao Tse-tung of China and Pol Pot of Cambodia. He has used his young trained assassins to eliminate rivals within the ranks of the progressives and leftists of Peru as well as Christian leaders and all active and potential opponents. He has left a trail of blood and terror as he has conquered large areas of Peru. One of his tactics has been to organize the assassination of judges who may be called upon to try captured Sendero Communists.

Guzman has now been captured, tried and imprisoned. As can be expected, his Communist associates are attempting to harness the legal processes of democracy so that Guzman may utilize his prison as a platform for propaganda.

U.S.A. Associates

Proletarian Internationalism

The Party publishes the weekly newspaper, REVOLUTIONARY WORKER, and this paper is being used to rally international support for Guzman. It seeks to harness and use the devotion of U.S. citizens to "human rights" and the "due process of law." This is the strategy which Lenin developed and used.

Avakian follows this policy: "When you are in power, I demand 'due process', since that is your principle. When I am in power, I deny 'due process' because that is my principle." Whoever heard of Hitler, Stalin, Pol Pot, or Guzman granting "due process" to the millions they have killed?

The R.C.P. is organizing an International campaign on behalf of "due process" for Guzman. The Nov. 29 edition of the REVOLUTIONARY WORKER reports:

"As we go to press, Chairman Gonzalo--Abimael Guzman, leader of the Communist Party of Peru--has had no contact with anyone except his fascist jailers for six weeks! The last time his lawyer, Alfredo Crespo, saw Comrade Gonzalo was on October 11, when military judges with hoods over their heads handed down a life sentence in a blatant kangaroo trial. Since then, Chairman Gonzalo has been held in a concrete jail cell on an island off the coast of the city of Lima, unable to see anyone except his enemies." (Page 3)

The R.C.P. has organized an "International Emergency Committee to Defend the Life of Abimael Guzman". The November 29 edition of REVOLUTIONARY WORKER publishes a "partial list" of supporters of Guzman. It contains over 160 prominent names. Among those listed are: Ramsey Clark, former Attorney General of the U.S., and William Kunstler, attorney, Center for Constitutional Rights, N.Y.C.

The Communist doctrine of Proletarian Internationalism still has its devotees. How many will they be able to dupe?

THE NATION'S GREATEST ASSET

A recent Australian report on "Marriage, Divorce, and the Family" by Barry Maley of the Center for Independent Studies, affirms that strong families are the greatest source of national strength.

Maley points out that husbands work fifty percent harder than bachelors, and that wives, who accept the responsibility of home and child care, work much harder than they did when they were single.

Consequently, members of families receive benefits that are clearly more valuable than government transfers. Therefore, a sound family policy is almost the whole of a good welfare policy. He accuses Australian family policy of having created a destructive mess.

The report notes that while $2 billion in public funds is paid each year in family allowances for more than three million children, $3 billion is spent on 400,000 children in one-parent families.

His conclusion is that "It is the greatest of boons to be born into a good family, and one of the best things we can do with our own lives is to help create a good family."

This article appeared in the January 24, 1993 edition of the REVOLUTIONARY WORKER which is published by the Revolutionary Communist Party (RCP) of the U.S.A.

Take Up the Revolutionary Science of Marxism-Leninism-Maoism!

In the mountains of Peru, armed guerrilla fighters are making hard-fought advances—mobilizing the people to overthrow the old state and create a revolutionary new society. They are part of an international movement that proudly calls itself followers of Mao Tsetung. Many people want to know, "What is the philosophy that guides this emerging movement of uncompromising revolutionaries?"

The philosophy's name is MARXISM-LENINISM-MAOISM—called MLM for short.

MLM is a guide to revolutionary action. MLM shows us how to organize the people—to deal on the so-called all-powerful suckers who brutalize and rob people all over world. MLM shows us how to fight for proletarian revolution and put an end to all forms of oppression—whites downpressing Blacks, men dominating women, a few rich countries lording it over the rest of the world. MLM shows us how to transform ourselves into servants of the people.

MLM teaches how to build armies of the people to fight wars of revolution. And how to end this vampire-like, people-destroying system and create a new world where people count above all. A communist world.

MLM is powerful stuff. Go check it out.

The mysterious resources of the RCP are illustrated by the low cost of the following advertised publications:

PHONY COMMUNISM IS DEAD...LONG LIVE REAL COMMUNISM!, by Bob Avakian

Avakian probes deeply into the true history and lessons of revolution, including the Maoist Cultural Revolution. He shows that real communism is both visionary and practical—and he shows that it is very much alive in the world today. Avakian shows how communism does not wipe out individuality or freedom—and he explains how communism inspires people to new heights of conscious activism. If you want to know what communism is about, then read this book. $5

INTERVIEW WITH CHAIRMAN GONZALO

Get the word straight from the man that the oppressors are calling the "most dangerous revolutionary of the decade." In this 1988 interview, the leader of the Communist Party of Peru explains why he believes Maoism is crucial for liberating the people. He covers a broad range of topics, including how the people's war in Peru started and what it means to be a communist. (Available both as a pamphlet and as part of A World To Win #18.) $6

NEW PROGRAMME AND NEW CONSTITUTION OF THE REVOLUTIONARY COMMUNIST PARTY, USA

This New Programme is the "road map" for revolution in the USA today. It describes what changes the revolution will make in every aspect of society once state power is seized. It describes how the Revolutionary Communist Party views the revolutionary potential of different sections of the people. The New Constitution explains the Party's basic principles. It explains how to join the Party, and what the duties of Party members are. $3

MAO TSETUNG'S IMMORTAL CONTRIBUTIONS, by Bob Avakian

If you want to dig into the theories of Mao Tsetung, this is an excellent place to look. Avakian sums up Mao's teachings on philosophy, revolutionary warfare, economics, making revolution in oppressed and colonial countries, and culture. It describes Mao's most pathbreaking contribution: a theory for combating the reversal of revolutions after the seizure of power. $4.95

DECLARATION OF THE REVOLUTIONARY INTERNATIONALIST MOVEMENT

The Declaration explains the beliefs that unite this international movement of parties and organizations that follow the teachings of Marx, Lenin and Mao Tsetung. The Declaration sums up key lessons from the history of proletarian revolution around the world and describes in broad strokes how to prepare and carry out revolutions in different kinds of countries. This historic document has supporters on every continent. It is available in over fifteen languages. $2

OUR IDEOLOGY IS MARXISM-LENINISM-MAOISM, by Bob Avakian

Avakian breaks down the Maoist outlook and approach—in language everyone can understand. How do Maoists view criticism and self-criticism? Why isn't revenge the right attitude for revolutionaries? Do people shape this system in their own image—or is it mainly the other way around? Why is it wrong to call communism a "European ideology"? And much more. $3

THE UNVARNISHED TRUTH ABOUT AIDS

CAUTION: Portions of the following article are offensive

Accurate diagnosis makes possible the effective treatment of disease. In order to make an accurate diagnosis, a doctor must often discuss matters which are private and embarrassing.

AIDS is a cruel and deadly disease. To diagnose it accurately, it is imperative to describe and discuss the conduct that has caused, and continues to cause, the AIDS epidemic in the United States, Canada, Central and South America, the Caribbean, Europe, and Australia. That conduct is Sodomy.

Do you find the discussion of Sodomy distasteful and disgusting? I most certainly do, and I write with great hesitation, impelled by the reality of the immense suffering and death that is being caused by the AIDS epidemic, and with the hope that precise knowledge of the cause of this epidemic may give guidance concerning the measures that must be taken to save many lives and prevent enormous suffering.

How

What is Sodomy? Sodomy takes place when an erect penis is inserted into the rectum through the anal canal, where it may traumatize the sensitive mucosal lining so that the AIDS virus, which is present in the seminal fluid, which is ejected during the orgasmic climax, can enter into the blood stream of the individual being sodomized, or into the blood stream of the active sodomizer through any laceration of the penis, or possibly through the intact skin.

Why

Why do individuals engage in the practice of Sodomy? The answer is--because they experience a powerful urge to do so. Whence does this urge come?

Nature or Nurture

The origin of this urge is the subject of great controversy. Some claim that it is innate; that some arrangement of the genes has created a nature with homosexual desires and that this nature cannot be changed. Others claim that the homosexual urge is caused by environmental experiences during childhood, and that it is susceptible to human choice.

How important is the answer to the question as to whether homosexuality is innate or chosen? Some believe that it is most important. George Will, the television commentator for the ABC network, asserted on the program, "This Week With David Brinkley", that it is the most important question in relation to what is commonly known as "sexual preference". I beg to differ.

I confess that I lack the expertise to answer scientifically the question concerning the origin of the impulse to commit Sodomy. However, I dare to answer as Presidential Candidate Ross Perot did when he was asked if the experience of Governor Clinton as chief executive of the State of Arkansas equipped him to deal with the problems that would confront him as President of the U.S.A. -- "His experience is irrelevant."

We are not the helpless victims of our innate urges. We have the right and responsibility to make choices to indulge or restrain our urges. If this were not so, rape and child abuse would not be crimes. Every rapist could say, "I have a genetically produced, powerful innate urge to commit rape;" every child molester could say, "I have a powerful, uncontrollable preference for sexual intercourse with young children." Civilized society requires that we learn to control our innate impulses.

Causing and Spreading Disease

While I do not know whether "sexual preference" is innate or chosen, I do know that indulgence in the conduct of Sodomy causes and spreads disease. The evidence for this is overwhelming. Consider the following statement from the book, "History of AIDS, Emergence and Origin of a Modern Pandemic", by Mirko D. Grmek, M.D., Ph.D. The author of this book is Director of Studies at the "Ecole Pratique des Haute Etudes" at the Sorbonne in Paris, France. It is translated from the French by Russell C. Maulitz, M.D., Ph.D. and Jacylin Duffin, M.D., who is professor of the History of Medicine at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, Canada. It is published by Princeton University Press, Princeton, New Jersey:

"American homosexuals created the conditions which, by exceeding a critical threshold, made the epidemic possible. They were a sort of 'Culture Medium' that permitted virulent strains of HIV to emerge... between 1969 and 1973, at least nine thousand homosexuals arrived in San Francisco followed, in the 1974-1979 period, by twenty thousand others. Each year between 1979 and 1982 about five thousand homosexuals settled there. It was estimated that by 1982 there were about ninety-eight thousand homosexuals in San Francisco...

"Never in human history had one city known such a concentration of homosexuals, nor such promiscuity... Meeting places made room for those who wished to have sex with several anonymous partners in a single day, and to play both the active and receptive roles. Studies showed that, in male homosexual relations, receptive anal intercourse is by far the most important factor of risk for HIV infection... The spread of AIDS is facilitated and increased in a critical way if a considerable number of homosexuals adopt neither the active nor the passive role exclusively but combine the two...

"Studies showed that most American homosexuals living in large cities had several dozen sex partners each year; mean figures of eighty to one hundred partners were not rare, and some mounted into the hundreds. About 10 percent of homosexuals interviewed had had sexual contact with over five hundred persons during their lives. In medical terms, the almost immediate result was an increase in the 'classic' sexually transmitted diseases, notably syphilis and gonorrhea; of certain viral diseases, such as hepatitis, herpes and cytomegalovirus and intestinal parasites such as amebiasis. Skin disorders of an otherwise relatively rare nature, and chronic diarrhea, became the daily lot of homosexuals. The rise in these disorders preceded the AIDS outbreak, and already indicated the point at which the epidemiologic situation was ready to explode... It was thus in the crowded ranks of the American homosexual community that the AIDS virus finally passed the point of no return in its epidemic spread." (Pages 168-169)

This report of the actual conduct of the "gay" community contrasts starkly with the deceptive picture of "gays" which is presented constantly in the News Media. That picture creates the impression that a typical homosexual relationship is a "union" between two fine citizens which is stable and mutually sustaining, and that such a "union" deserves respect as an alternative form of marriage; and that it is worthy of the privileges and responsibilities, such as inheritance and child nurturing, which are given to the members of a traditional family consisting of father, mother and children.

If such a "gay family" exists, it is the exception which proves the rule. Promiscuity is the norm; disease and death are the usual offspring.

Thus the struggle for "Gay Rights" was, and is, the struggle for the right to spread disease, suffering and death. Which side will President Clinton support in this life and death struggle?

(An article on the origin of the AIDS VIRUS will be published in the March 1 newsletter.)

TEST! TEST! TEST!

The first step to stop the spread of the U.S. AIDS epidemic should be to discover the location of the AIDS virus. Steps could then be taken to prevent its transfer to the uninfected.

The location of the virus could, and should, be discovered by universal, mandatory testing. If universal, such testing would be non-discriminatory.

Gays must admit that AIDS discriminates

This article was published Saturday, January 23, in the leading Australian newspaper, THE WEEKEND AUSTRALIAN. The author is B.A. Santamaria, a prominent television and newspaper columnist who dares to tell the truth. His comments are stimulated by an absurd and wasteful campaign of the Australian Government, which is spending millions of dollars to deceive the Australian electorate by selective presentation of half-truths.

JUDGED by many, although not all, of those who apparently know best, Rudolf Nureyev was the greatest contemporary exponent of the art of ballet. A fortnight ago he died of what his doctor, Michel Canesi, classified as "cardiac complications following a devastating illness" (AIDS), adding that he had apparently been infected 13 years ago when HIV was still unrecognised.

On his death bed, Nureyev is reported to have told his closest friends: "I regret absolutely nothing." He was what the modern world appears to admire most, his "own man", faithful to his own concept of morality. Yet - what a waste!

An extraordinary number of artists have succumbed to the dreaded virus within the past year in Britain and the United States: the late Anthony Perkins, the British actor Denholm Elliott, the playwright Scott McPherson, Glen White of the Joffrey Ballet, and Clark Tippett, principal dancer of the American Ballet Theatre. The Australian, Peter Allen, died at the age of 48.

In the field of sport, "Magic" Johnson, still fortunately alive, headed the list, his self-disclosure seeming only to confirm his status as a national hero. The celebrated tennis player, Arthur Ashe, was another.

The Australian component is sufficiently well known, not only because many of its members have been prominent in the world of the arts, but because the media can be relied upon to treat their inevitably tragic deaths with the acclaim once reserved for winners of the Victoria Cross for outstanding gallantry under enemy fire.

And so, to still another television "educational" campaign costing millions of public money. The PR firm responsible for it, BAM/SSB, claims that over a two-week period its commercials will be seen by 75 to 80 per cent of their target audience, which includes practically everybody.

Apparently the lesson of the notorious Grim Reaper campaign which, with its various follow-ups, also cost millions, has not sunk in, although it is now universally derided as a classic example of what not to do: its statistics claiming to prove that "everybody is equally at risk" were as fraudulent as the images projected were disgusting.

RAM/SSB states that "all the campaigns come out of the three-year White Paper on national AIDS strategy. The strategy has two parts - to prevent the transmission of AIDS, and to address its social effects. The basic education had to be done first, and now it is appropriate to look at the personal and social effects, of which determination is the main one."

With every other disease, prevention is regarded as better than cure. Hence one might have thought that the first aim of any educational campaign would be to tell the truth about its causes and its origins. Regrettably, the homosexual lobby - which this column distinguishes from the mass of tragic victims - has made it its main business to disguise, rather than disclose the truth.

When a witness is called to the stand, the court insists that he swears not only "to tell the truth", but "the whole truth and nothing but the truth". This, of course, is a different standard from that expected of PR, which the late Malcolm Muggeridge somewhat harshly called "organised lying". Perhaps this new "educational" campaign will maintain a more acceptable standard of truthfulness. One hopes so.

Will it, for instance, seriously inform its viewers of the fact that as at June last, of the 3238 people with AIDS in Australia, more than 80 per cent were infected "through homosexual transmission" (The Australian 4-5/7/92)?

Will it point out that the number of new infections in Australia last year is reliably, if still unofficially, reported to be over 1000? Or that one reason for the large number of infections for contaminated blood when the disease was first diagnosed was that the "AIDS community" insisted that the blood of homosexuals be used in transfusions, on the plea that to exclude them was a form of discrimination.

THE forthcoming campaign is aimed, among other purposes, at alleged discrimination against HIV carriers by doctors and other health personnel. The medical profession and its associates naturally wish to safeguard their own health and that of their families from the danger of infection by contact with HIV-infected blood and other fluids. What the profession is demanding is not the right to refuse to supply medical treatment to HIV subjects, but the right to know which of their patients carry the strain so they can take added precautions against accidental infection. This is opposed as "discrimination".

Perhaps none of these highly consequential facts are on the forthcoming agenda. The attempt to placate the homosexual lobby is, in any case, fruitless. One success simply leads to a further demand. Like the militant feminist lobby, with which it is habitually associated, the homosexual lobby is implacable.

The time is surely overdue for the community to face up to the incessant and seemingly endless claims of the lobby. Since there is no longer any consensus on moral issues in Western societies, it is impossible to frame any morally compelling argument which will be accepted by homosexuals in relation to their way of life or, more accurately, way of death.

The absence of moral consensus following on Nietzsche's "death of God" has ushered in a singularly bleak Western world but, for the time being at least, little can be done to reform the moral anarchy of our epoch. In the last analysis, each of us is his "own man" and will make his own choice.

But if the practising homosexual has the right to be his "own man" to do exactly what he wants to do, the rest of the community has equal rights. A doctor, for instance, is just as entitled to know all the details of the medical condition of those on whom he is called to operate, so that by doubling precautions he will not be exposed to risks which he has not voluntarily undertaken.

Again, if the homosexual lobby insists on claiming the titles of "marriage" and "family" for its relationships, it should be firmly told that while its members may be free to follow their own choice, the community is equally free to protect the most basic social institutions and not to weaken them by lying about their nature.

The people are not fools. They are aware of the overwhelming statistical relationship between homosexual practices and the AIDS plague. The more the homosexual lobby denies that relationship and seeks to shout down those prepared to publish the facts, the more the public understands that their position is based on a fundamental falsehood, and disbelieves everything they say. The travesties they seek to have recognised as facts create the very hostility which expensive campaigns of "education" allegedly seek to dissipate.

The main sufferers from the inevitable public reaction are the pitiful victims of the disease, who have every right to seek support and sympathy but who are cut off from it by the hectoring tactics of their self-styled representatives.
